NDPHC SEEKS PARTNERSHIP WITH AKWA IBOM STATE GOVERNMENT

The recently appointed Management of the Niger Delta Power Holding Company (NDPHC), owners of the National Integrated Power Project (NIPP), paid a visit to the Governor of Akwa Ibom State, Pastor Umo Eno, as they commenced a tour of NDPHC-owned power plants across Nigeria.

Jennifer Adighije, the Managing Director/Chief Executive Officer of NDPHC who led the delegation stated that they were in the state to look into potential opportunities in the new electricity market.

She said that the NDPHC is ready to work with Akwa Ibom State-owned Ibom Power Company Limited to meet the power needs of Akwa Ibom residents and other eligible customers in the state's commercial and industrial clusters. The Governor, Pastor Umo Eno, stated in his remarks that the State is willing to collaborate with NDPHC since power serves as a catalyst for the other initiatives under the ARISE agenda.

"We look forward to areas where we can collaborate. That's why we invited the Ministry of Power and the Managing Director of the Akwa Ibom Investment Corporation (AKICORP) to meet with your team and review all the investment indices," the Governor said.

AKWA IBOM MOURNS

In this final edition of our weekly Newsletter for the month of September 2024, we mourn the demise of the beloved First Lady of Akwa Ibom State, Her Excellency, Pastor (Mrs.) Patience Umo Eno. Our prayers are with His Excellency, the Governor. We also covered the visit by the new Management of the Niger Delta Power Holding Company (NDPHC) to Akwa Ibom State. NDPHC is the legal vehicle for implementing the National Integrated Power Project (NIPP) — an initiative conceived in 2004 to fast-track government-funded initiatives to stabilize Nigeria's electricity supply system. This edition also highlights various developments in the power industry, including the arrest of some vandals of electrical installations in Akwa Ibom State by the paramilitary group NSCDC.

INTERNATIONAL CUSTOMERS PAID $50M FOR ELECTRICITY – NERC REPORT

Customers from Niger, Benin, and Togo paid the Nigerian Electricity Supply Industry (NESI) a total of $50.36 million for the distribution of electricity in 2023, according to a 2023 report of the Nigerian Electricity Regulatory Commission (NERC) as reported by Nairametrics. While Nigeria's electricity supply to neighbouring African countries has been criticised, the NERC report reveals that the 19 active bilateral customers in Nigeria had a cumulative remittance performance of 84%, while its three (3) international customers had a remittance performance of 94%.

NBET SEEKS 5-YEAR LICENCE RENEWAL

The Nigerian Bulk Electricity Trading Plc (NBET) has requested a 5-year renewal of its operational licence, which ends on November 21 this year, Thisday reports. Following an order issued by the Nigerian Electricity Regulatory Commission (NERC) in July of this year instructing NBET not to enter into new contracts for the purchase and resale of electricity and ancillary services, the Managing Director of NBET, Mr. Johnson Akinawo, has argued in a NERC-organized public hearing that NBET still has a critical role to play in the sector and thus requested that the current operating licence be renewed for another 5 years.

NSCDC NABS SUSPECTED VANDALS OF ELECTRICITY INSTALLATIONS IN AKWA IBOM

At least five suspected vandals of electricity installations in Akwa Ibom State have been arrested by officers of the Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps (NSCDC), Akwa Ibom Command, News Agency of Nigeria (NAN) reports. According to the NSCDC, the suspects were apprehended while vandalising power installations, including high-tension wires, in Ikot Obio Ekpong village, Mkpat Enin Local Government Area.

The suspects also vandalised power infrastructure in Atanuk village, a neighbouring village to the two other affected villages. One of the suspects arrested is Uchenna Uguru, the buyer of the stolen cables as well as the suspects, Emmanuel Sampson, Victor Sampson and Kingsley Umoren.
